

R & D Center of Special Cement of WCC was Established

In the morning of Aug 09, 2017, unveiling ceremony of research & development center of special cement was held in WCC's headquarter, director of building material technology intelligence research institute Xu Luoyi and chairman of WCC Zhang Jimin attended the unveiling ceremony.

To thank building material technology intelligence research institute for great support and build long-term cooperation mechanism, Zhang Jimin invited Bi Xiangliang as consultant who is a senior consultant of special cement branch.

Develop variety of products is very essential for cement industry, traditional cement enterprise should keep changing ideas to comply with market orientation for contribution in national product adjustment, Bi Xiangliang said, he hopes the cooperation between scientific research institution and enterprise can set example in the industry.

Director of Building Material Technology Intelligence Research Institute Xu Luoyi and chairman of WCC Zhang Jimin made important speeches, Xu Luoyi gave the full recognition of WCC's development, he said that WCC has strategic vision to develop special cement, they will fully support WCC to be a professional R & D center of special cement at home and abroad. Zhang Jimin thank Building Material Technology Intelligence Research Institute for supporting to establish R & D center, which is going to provide adequate guarantee to Building Material Technology Intelligence Research Institute from platform, finance, equipment etc., and achieve a win-win situation.

Research & development center establishment and unveiling ceremony means WCC put the special cement as priority and marks the cooperation between two parties lift to a new height. With the professional team support from Building Material Technology Intelligence Research Institute, WCC will keep steady development in cement research and technology innovation, both parties will work together to achieve social and economic benefits.